

HudsonParrottWalker Banking Practice

Trial Tested

Attorneys at HudsonParrottWalker have represented banks throughout Georgia and other jurisdictions in all levels of state and federal court.

Representative Case Work

- Defending the officers and directors of failed banks who have been sued for negligence and gross negligence by the FDIC. Two of these suits are ongoing. One has been successfully settled within policy limits.
- Defending bank that financed a subdivision that the developer failed to complete. The developer defaulted on the loan, and the bank foreclosed. An individual who had purchased a house and lot in the neighborhood then sued the bank for failing to enforce covenants, negligence and misrepresentation. Prevailed on summary judgment, and the matter is on appeal to the Eleventh Circuit.
- Defended the officers and directors of failed banks in lawsuits brought by former shareholders. These cases were resolved on a motion to dismiss, upheld by the Court of Appeals. Anderson v. Daniel, 314 Ga.App. 384, 724 S.E.2d 401 (2012).

Representative Case Work

- Defended a bank sued by the Georgia Insurance Commissioner, who alleged that the bank engaged in negligent omissions in writing a letter regarding the account of an insurance company applicant. The case was resolved favorably on a motion for summary judgment.
- Defended a bank for allegedly failing to fund a loan. The matter was resolved on summary judgment, and then upheld on appeal. Hosch v. The Park Avenue Bank, No. A11A0767 (Ga.App. June 30, 2011).
- Defended a bank for allegedly failing to provide benefits required by ERISA plan. Prevailed on summary judgment.
- Experienced in representing bank officers in administrative matters brought by the FDIC.
- Experienced in representing Banks as Plaintiffs in complex collection matters.

About HudsonParrottWalker

HudsonParrottWalker was established to continue advancement of legal achievements in the industries of construction, banking and commercial litigation. Our firm is grounded on national success in trials and arbitration. We provide outside counsel, draft contracts and devise dispute resolution strategies based on experience. We believe theory must be supported by actual and practical results. Based in Atlanta, Georgia, the firm is dedicated to proven results, commitment and client success. HudsonParrottWalker is Trial Tested and equipped with experienced professionals to handle your legal needs.